ROBBER JAILED FOR VIDEO SCAM

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A GANG member who lured music video producers to a sham film shoot on a Tottenham estate before robbing them at knife-point has been jailed for seven years.

Darren Kwarteng, 18, used social media to arrange to meet his victims on the Broadwater Farm estate under the guise they would be shooting a rap video featuring him.

But on arrival, Wood Green Crown Court heard, Kwarteng produce either a hammer, hunting knife or samurai sword and robbed them of valuable video equipment, tablets, laptops and mobile phones, along with watches, clothing and cash.

In one robbery, his victim tried to escape by jumping from a first-floor balcony suffering serious facial, arm and leg injuries. Another victim was hit with a hammer and a third had his jacket slashed with a knife.

Kwarteng, of Willan Road, on the Broadwater Farm Estate, targeted music video producers contacting them over a three-month period between December 2015 and February 2016 via social media sites including Facebook, Twitter and Gumtree, as well as by email.

He received the prison term on Thursday after pleading guilty to robbery, attempted robbery and possession of a knife and sword.

Dennis Adjei-Kyem, 20, of Croydon House, Gloucester Road, on the Broadwater Farm Estate, appeared with him and received a 15-month suspended sentence for handling stolen goods.

PC John Owens, of the Trident and Area Crime Command, said: "These robberies involved considerable planning and foresight, with the victims being specifically targeted for the high-value equipment they brought with them."

"By using different social media platforms and user names, Kwarteng thought he could hide under the cloak of anonymity to get away with these crimes. This was not the case and at the age of 18 he faces a lengthy custodial sentence to reflect on the consequences of his actions."

Leader warns mayor over Crossrail link

NEW Mayor of London Sadiq Khan has been warned by Haringey Council's leader that any delay to Crossrail 2 could put the proposed high-speed rail link to the borough at risk.

Claire Kober has urged Mr Khan not to delay the £32billion scheme, which would see trains running on an extended section between Seven Sisters and New Southgate stations, via Turnpike Lane and Alexandra Palace stations, or on an alternative route via Wood Green station.

There would also be a spur line to Tottenham Hale and potentially to Northumberland Park.

How Crossrail 2 is going to be paid for is still uncertain and some have argued the scheme is too ambitious and should be delayed to save money.

But Ms Kober warned any hold-up would come at a huge cost for jobs, homes and economic growth in London.

"It would deny over 700,000 Londoners in the north of our city a new, high-speed rail line on their doorstep," she said.

"A delay would also mean the end of the Crossrail 2 link to Seven Sisters, one of the areas of London most in need of new jobs, new homes and economic growth.

"My message to the new mayor is simple: please put Crossrail 2 at the top of your agenda and deliver this project in full without delay."

No time to waste: Claire Kober

Tennis aces serve up boost for charity with fundraiser

A CROUCH End tennis club served up an ace with a fundraising tournament in aid of a cancer charity.

Hanley Tennis Club, based in Crouch End Playing Fields, raised more than £800 for Dimpleby Cancer Care on Sunday.

The charity was set up 50 years ago in memory of broadcaster Richard Dimpleby and provides holistic care for cancer patients.

A variety of attractions drew more than 50 members of the community to the event, which included a friendly tournament against Wood Vale Tennis Club, raffles, lawn games and afternoon tea, with cakes and sandwiches generously provided by tournament sponsors, Dunn's Bakery, in The Broadway, Crouch End.

Hornsey and Wood Green MP Catherine West presented the trophy. It was the second year that the club has held the event, which chairman Maurice Vidowsky organised in memory of his friend Georgie Grindlay, who died from cancer and had also worked for Dimpleby Cancer Care.

Cup of joy: Catherine West, Hornsey and Wood Green MP, presents the trophy to the tournament winners, Wood Vale's Gerald Azzopardi and Hanley Tennis Club's Graham Robertson

Planning wrangle 'will not derail development'

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

COUNCIL chiefs have insisted that their plan for a multi-million-pound development in Edmonton is not in jeopardy, despite fears that it is competing with a private company in a tussle to buy the land needed for the scheme.

Terry Neville, the leader of the Tory group on Enfield Council, has slammed the local authority for not issuing a compulsory purchase order on a parcel of land in the midst of an expanse of former brownfield sites just north of the North Circular Road that are earmarked for the Meridian Water development.

He told this paper that there was now a private developer competing with the council to buy the land and warned that the ensuing bidding war could force the council to pay way over the odds.

He added: "The only winner out of this is going to be the landowner who has created a financial competition for the land he holds. The loser will be the taxpayers of Enfield who will watch as their Labour councillors spend huge sums of money due to, I am afraid to say, incompetence.

"We have been warning the council for years that they need to compulsorily purchase this land to avoid exactly this situation arising. They arrogantly ignore us and the taxpayer of Enfield is now going to have to foot the bill."

However, the cabinet member for

What now: The land has been earmarked for the Meridian Water project regeneration Alan Sitkin, who is overseeing the development, has stressed that CPOs can only be issued once the authority can show a court that it has "entered into professional negotiations in good faith over a sustained period of time".

He told the Advertiser that the council is currently involved in this stage of the process and did not rule out acting on a compulsory purchase once this stage of the process was complete.

He said: "The negotiations are at a very commercially sensitive stage. I cannot comment on details at this stage, but let me say I am confident that we are going to secure all the land in our Meridian Water development at the best possible price.

"I have a responsibility to use public money judiciously. I am looking out for Enfield taxpayers and will continue to do so by making sure we follow every proper step in this process."

Appeal after teen stabbing

POLICE are appealing for information after a boy was stabbed in the leg in a fight outside a school.

Officers were called to Chace Community School, in Churchbury Road, Enfield, at about 3.30pm last Thursday to reports of a fight outside the school.

When they arrived on the scene, they found a 14-year-old boy who had reportedly been stabbed.

They could not see any sign of injury.

The London Ambulance Service was called, but the boy declined treatment.

Two hours later, at about 5.40pm, police were called to an east London hospital, where a 14-year-old boy had been brought in suffering from a stab wound to the leg.

When officers arrived, they realised it was the same boy they had spoken to earlier in the day after the incident in Churchbury Road.

The boy was treated for his injuries and has since been discharged.

The suspects involved in the altercation are described as three Turkish teenagers aged between 15 and 18.

Anyone with information is asked to call Enfield CID on 07748 780 330, or they can call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Feeling vine: Sarah Vaughan-Roberts, manager of Forty Hall Vineyard; inset, bottles of Ortega and Bacchus on sale

Community spirit does Sarah proud

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

STARING down the rows of green vines, a broad smile on her face, Sarah Vaughan-Roberts describes a feeling of immense pride.

For the first time Forty Hall Vineyard has produced enough of its healthy organic grapes to be bottled, turned into wine and sold.

Two white wines named Ortega and Bacchus made by award-winning English winemaker Will Davenport have gone on sale this week at the farm shop, with 700 and 1,500 bottles available respectively.

Relatively new to this kind of success, Sarah, the vineyard founder, says she has no idea how they will sell, but can only hope it's the start of something amazing.

"It's such a buzz to see them bottled and ready to be bought, says Sarah, 57. "I feel so proud. It's a wonderful feeling to know you've made something like that from scratch.

"But we wouldn't have any of this without the volunteers, they have made this all happen."

"We have scores of people who come and volunteer to do everything – from the pruning, to the bud rubbing, (a technique that involves getting rid of stray buds), to training the vines, the harvest, everything.

"And that is what makes us special, it's not me, who has done this, it's them."

The volunteers she is talking about are the vineyard workers. They come in all shapes and sizes, with a host of reasons for signing up, which some choose to disclose while many do not.

Mum-of-two Sarah explains: "We are a bit different here, in that we are a community-run vineyard – the biggest vineyard in London – and people are referred here from hospital, often mental health referrals, because it's been proven that being outside, doing meaningful work in a beautiful setting like, this can help."

On a walk around of the impressive 10 acres, it's easy to see how people find solace here.

And it's not just people who have been referred who love the calm, but active, setting. Some volunteer because they have retired and are looking for a new stimulus, others have been bereaved and are looking for friendship.

As Sarah quite simply says: "It can help".

It was this escapism that prompted Sarah to go out and study for a diploma at Plumpton College, in east Sussex, when her two children were small.

What began as pursuing her dream of learning about wines, then became the coursework for her diploma and finally the vineyard of today. Although wary of blowing her own trumpet, it was Sarah who wrote to farms and landowners in London about starting a small vineyard.

It's a tough geography because a lot of the land in the city is clay-based and terrible for cultivating grapes.

But finally she struck gold with an offer to come and speak to Capel Manor College and Gardens about using their land – free of charge – at Forty Hall, in Forty Hill, Enfield.

Sarah says: "We were incredibly fortunate, really, the site was perfect, the land is south-facing with a slight rolling hill and natural drainage – perfect for a vineyard.

"We managed to get a local food award grant from the Lottery and it has incrementally grown from that. Each year we get a little bit better."

In 2009, the first patch was planted – but the following year the vineyard was hit with a bad frost and destroyed, a memory which still haunts Sarah.

When quizzed about whether this will be a good crop, her face clouds over.

"One year we had a terribly bad frost," she said. "It was May 25, I'll never forget it and it destroyed everything. Now I can't relax until we're into June. After that, these buds – that are incredibly vulnerable now – should be safe.

"We prune late, not until the middle of February and we don't harvest until late, then the grapes are picked and transported on the same day to the winery on the Kent/Sussex borders, so all that goodness is trapped in.

"Until then all I can do is hope for the best."

A CANCER support charity is desperately disappointed after a spring festival it put on managed to net only a few hundred pounds – after charges and expenses had been taken into account.

The Nightingale centre, based at the Lancaster Centre, in Lancaster Road, Enfield, staged the festival on Saturday in a bid to raise much-needed funds.

Up until two years ago the charity was able to put on the festival in the grounds of Capel Manor College, in Bullsmoor Lane, Enfield, for a small discretionary charge – but the college ended the informal arrangement and the charity sought help from Enfield Council.

dampen charity's spring festival nearby council-owned Bulls Cross playing field, near Tottenham Hotspur's training ground.

It was only when they had started the process of organising the event that they realised they would be hit by high fees as the council has had to slash budgets in the wake of government cuts and charities can no longer rely on grants and aid from the local authority.

"We had to pay £1,000 to rent the field, then another £1,000 for track matting to protect the grass," said Lesa Barker, Nightingale's fundraising manager. "On top of that we had to pay for a temporary event licence and then a temporary sales licence, which cost £399."

She added that, after also hiring loos, security and electricity generators, the charity raised just £600. She said: "In future we will be holding our events in Waltham Abbey because the council understands we are a charity and don't charge us sky-high fees."

However, a spokeswoman for Enfield Council said that the authority "fully supported" the charity and pointed to its involvement with the annual Night Hike, planned this year for May 20.

She added that the council had a duty to all park users and had to make sure events caused as little damage as possible to green spaces.

She said: "We need the people who book these events to cover the costs we incur in protecting our beautiful sites, applying for licences and providing appropriate facilities for participants. Nightingale Hospice Trust would have been fully aware of the cost of hiring Bulls Cross playing field before they made their booking. Sadly, economic reality now dictates that local authorities can no longer afford to subsidise events of this nature."

Kebab shop fined after dead mouse is found in kitchen

KEBAB shop bosses have been slapped with a fine after inspectors found a dead mouse in their kitchen.

Health and hygiene inspectors stumbled across the rodent's body on an inspection of Best Kebab and Fish, in Hertford Road, Edmonton.

At a hearing at Enfield Magistrates' Court earlier this month, Bahoz (UK) Ltd, which owned the shop, and the company's director Abdullah Kaya, 48, were each ordered to pay £2,550 in fines and costs.

Mr Kaya and the company pleaded guilty to four health and safety breaches on May 5 after the council launched a prosecution.

The restaurant was visited repeatedly and instructed to improve.

When a representative from the EDF energy company accompanied council inspectors on a visit, they not only found the mouse but also discovered that the shop was also stealing electricity, despite the fact that it was disconnected.

Daniel Anderson, Enfield Council's cabinet member for environment, said: "Outlets which serve food to the public need to comply with certain basic standards. In this case those basic standards were completely ignored and we had no choice other than to prosecute."

"Both the company and the owner were given numerous opportunities to address the problems we identified, but they were either unwilling or unable to do so. This prosecution, therefore, sends out a strong message that we will not tolerate lax standards of hygiene in this borough."

Joy for parents as safe road crossing gets the go-ahead

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

CAMPAIGNERS are celebrating after council chiefs gave the green light to a new, child-safe crossing at a busy junction.

Alison Paing, who has spearheaded efforts to get a pelican crossing installed at the busy four-way junction at Baker Street and Parsonage Lane, in Enfield Town, is thrilled with the decision.

"It is fantastic news," she said. "We are not opening the champagne until Transport for London [TfL] sign everything off, but we are hopeful this finally means there will be a safe crossing."

She revealed that Daniel Anderson, Enfield Council's cabinet member for environment, had been in touch to say that as a result of a feasibility study, the local authority had realised the junction was too busy to expect young children and families to rely on traffic islands to cross the roads.

She explained: "We have been told it will all be completed in 12 months, which is really positive news. We have been reassured it will be a green man crossing, which will make it safe for children. At the minute that junction is an accident waiting to happen."

The campaign was launched after parents with children at schools within walking distance of the junction grew increasingly concerned over the safety of the current, uncontrolled crossing, with specific reference to the high volume of traffic and the speed at which cars travelled.

After agreeing to carry out traffic modelling and a feasibility study, the council has announced that it will be investing £50,000 in the new pedestrian crossing.

Mr Anderson said: "We have listened to residents' concerns about the lack of a formal crossing at this location, explored the options and come up with a scheme that I believe is cost-effective, sensible and which, when implemented, will improve road safety for the hundreds of children who regularly cross the road at this junction in order to get to school.

Making their point: Campaigners at the Baker Street/Parsonage Lane junction

"We are very much committed to improving the safety of our roads and getting people out of their cars and into alternative methods of transportation. Indeed, if we genuinely want to encourage people to walk around the borough, we need to provide them with safer routes and that is exactly what we are doing here."

The agreed scheme will now need to be submitted for approval to TfL, who will review the proposals, conduct a safety audit and prepare a detailed design scheme and cost estimate.

Construction could start as early as February next year.

Spring's in the air

By Clare Casey

A TRAMPOLINE park, kitted out with hundreds of interconnected trampolines, foam pits and "padded walls" is set to open in the borough before the end of the year.

Slough-based company Jump In is bringing its latest craze to London and has announced Enfield as its new home.

Mystery surrounds the exact location of the trampoline park. However, a spokeswoman told the Advertiser it would definitely be in the borough, bringing with it 70 jobs.

She also confirmed that the new park would follow the brand's existing model, catering for up to 110 jumpers at any one time.

The premises will also be available for group sessions and private party hire with a kids' zone, foam pits, tumble tracks and a huge main court where people can jump freely between interconnected trampolines and literally bounce off the walls.

The spokeswoman said: "We are in talks at the moment about where Jump In will be opening, but I can tell you it's definitely happening. It will be before the end of the year and it will be brilliant.

"They go up very quickly. When we found a site in Warwick, it was ready within a week."

Trampoline parks have been described as the latest phenomenon to hit the UK. Jump In has sites in Slough as well as Warwick.

Jump In chairman Vernon West said: "As Londoners, we're really excited to be bringing a park to the capital. It has been a long time coming and is a special location."

"Our arenas in Slough – where we launched – and Warwickshire, have both done incredibly well and we're sure that the Jump In arena format will prove equally popular with London families. We can't wait for the launch and the big reveal."

Mr West added that the idea was inspired by the vast – and vastly popular – trampolining parks of America, which are "fun, affordable and are open to all ages and all skill levels".

Might as well jump: Slough-based Jump In is poised to open a trampolining park in Enfield

Mansion developer's blueprint leaves museum campaigners disappointed

CAMPAIGNERS calling on property developers to create a world class museum commemorating World War II spies stationed at the mansion house in Trent Park have said they are disappointed with plans revealed last week.

Veteran campaigner Kim Coleman, who led the fight against the Cat Hill development on the border of Enfield and Barnet, and colleague and historian Helen Fry, are urging Berkeley Homes, who bought the mansion house last year, to do much more to commemorate the work of the secret listeners stationed in the basement during the war, who listened, translated and recorded all discussions between the high-ranking prisoners held in the building.

In Berkeley Homes' current consultation document the developers state that they are committed to "public access to the mansion house and key rooms for the first time including the potential for a café or museum or other use, subject to further investigations, at basement and ground floor".

However, campaigners fear this means the developers are thinking about a very small museum.

Mrs Fry told the

Not up to scratch: Author Helen Fry, who wrote a book about the secret bugging of the Trent Park mansion house in World War II, and campaigner Kim Coleman, are unimpressed by Berkeley Homes' proposals

Advertiser: "What we are asking for in terms of space in our comprehensive museum concept plan, which will be available shortly, is a tiny percentage of Berkeley's overall development on the site."

"The space we are asking for is necessary to create a world-class museum on the lines of Bletchley Park, or the Churchill War Rooms."

The historian, who wrote The M Room, which detailed the secret bugging of the mansion, is adamant that the house was just as crucial to the war effort as the more famous Bletchley Park.

She cites the example of how listeners, posted in the basement of the house, heard Nazi generals discuss secret weapons, the V1 and V2, which came to be known as the doodlebug and which were an early type of rocket.

As a direct result of the information about where the secret weapons were being manufactured, Winston Churchill ordered the RAF to bomb the weapons plant on the remote Baltic island of Peenemünde in August 1943.

Mrs Fry added: "The mansion house is the missing link in our World War II history sites – we couldn't have won the war without all the different intelligence operations – including the secret listeners."

Anyone wishing to view Berkeley Homes' consultation documents can gain access to them via www.trentpark.com/consultation

U-turn allows foreign language exams

PUPILS in the borough with Turkish heritage will be able to take their community's language as a GCSE or A-level after an exam board U-turn.

Last year, exam boards AQA and OCR threatened that formal exams in languages such as Turkish, Polish and Punjabi could be axed as uptake of the exams was low.

However, following intensive lobbying by, among others, Enfield Council's cabinet member for education, Ayfer Orhan, who is of Turkish heritage herself, the government became involved in the campaign to keep the tests and have now ordered the boards to keep running them.

Ms Orhan welcomed the turnaround and said: "Now that the government has stepped in, it is not only Enfield's young people who can confidently gain qualifications that recognise their considerable linguistic skills, but also all young people throughout the UK."

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

ADVERTORIAL

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which? Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. "Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and manager Richard Power agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Broken Or Damaged Windows? Faulty Locks, Handles, Hinges?

Libraries seek to lure the IT crowd

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

CASH-strapped libraries are asking for IT savvy volunteers to help pass on their knowledge and skills to members who have little or no computer experience.

Enfield Council wants 20 volunteers to come forward and take a test before committing their time to help others.

The Good Samaritans do not need to be computer whizzes, but they do need to have a "good working knowledge of computers" and be "patient" teachers.

Organisers claim the payback for volunteers is the feel-good factor of "making new friends and helping people".

The council already has a team of these volunteers, but needs at least 20 more to meet demand.

Ayfer Orhan, the council's cabinet member for education, children's services and protection and libraries, said: "As 'computer buddies', these volunteers provide an invaluable introduction to IT helping library users of all ages to master the mouse and become familiar with basic computer functions.

"Library users can request help to use the computers and are offered individual sessions with a computer buddy to take them through the Learn My Way software in one-hour supported sessions. Most requests are from older library members.

"So computer buddies must have confidence in teaching and sharing skills and general troubleshooting of IT problems commonly experienced by library users.

"We are looking for at least 20 people with a

Appeal: Ayfer Orhan, Enfield Council's cabinet member for education, children's services and protection and libraries good working knowledge of computers. Through volunteering, computer buddies can make new friends, engage with the local community and have fun while learning new skills and work experience around customer care and teaching adults in a professional setting."

Computer buddies are needed in Oakwood, Enfield Town, Palmers Green and Enfield High-way libraries as soon as possible.

Injury triggers police probe

AN investigation has been launched by a police watchdog into the circumstances surrounding the broken shoulder suffered by a suspect arrested in Edmonton last month.

The IPCC (Independent Police Complaints Commission) has appealed for members of the public who may have witnessed the 28-year-old man's arrest to come forward.

CCTV footage shows a number of people at the junction of Galahad Road and Belvedere Road, near where the man was arrested at 8.25pm on Saturday, April 16, after his car was stopped by an unmarked police van.

The IPCC is keen to speak to any witnesses, including one man who appeared to be filming it on a mobile phone.

The suspect was taken to a police station, which has not been identified, where he was later found to have sustained a broken shoulder.

"The Metropolitan Police made a mandatory referral to the IPCC two days later and following an assessment it was decided to conduct an investigation," said a spokeswoman for the police watchdog.

Witnesses can contact the IPCC on 0800 096 9075 or email galahadroad@ipcc.gsi.gov.uk

Enfield Council leader

WE might suspect that the debate around the referendum on membership of the European Union was simply a preamble to the future battle for leadership of the Conservative Party.

But it is too important to let that be the case – and thankfully it now appears to be focusing on the issues.

In the 1975 referendum I voted to leave, but in 2016 I will vote to remain.

I think that is best for Britain and best for Enfield.

The world has changed tremendously in those 40 years.

Britain's prosperity and security is best protected by being part of a European body with shared values and interests.

The world has realigned with new economic powerhouses such as China and Britain needs to be clear how it can secure economic prosperity for our children and grandchildren.

Economically, our interests are centrally within the trading arrangements within the EU.

By removing barriers to trade, our exporting firms find life easier and we, as consumers, get the benefits of competition between European firms to provide lower priced, higher quality goods.

Outside the EU we will inevitably find it more difficult to access those markets and we risk our economic future.

The original intention of a European body was precisely to safeguard the post-1945 peace.

The world is a much more dangerous place than in 1975. This is not the time to weaken ties with our allies in Europe.

Diabetes sufferers must make their voices heard

If you have Type 2 diabetes, then now is your opportunity to make your voice count.

As the biggest diabetes research charity in the UK, it's vitally important that the research we fund reflects the needs of people with diabetes and those who care for them.

That's why we want thousands of people with Type 2 diabetes to take part in our major survey – also open to carers and healthcare professionals – so we can find out what the biggest questions are about Type 2 diabetes in 2016 that people with the condition want scientists to answer.

We need to make sure the results are representative of all people with Type 2 diabetes.

Ethnicity is a risk factor for getting the condition and we want to hear from more black and south Asian people to ensure our work reflects their concerns and priorities.

That way, we can help ensure that the questions that are important to people with Type 2 diabetes are answered by researchers, making a genuine difference to their lives.

Diabetes UK has been a pioneer of research for more than 80 years and we have been directly involved in many research breakthroughs that have changed our understanding and treatment of diabetes forever.

Taking part in this survey is a fantastic opportunity for people with Type 2 diabetes to help direct research to where it's needed most and potentially deliver life-changing results.

If you would like to take part, or find out more, go to www.diabetes.org.uk/T2-Top-10. The survey will be open until August 2016.

If you can't use our online form, we can send you a paper version, or call us on 0345 123 2399 and we can record your responses.

We will only collect contact details to ask if you would like to take part in the next phase of the process and to let you know about the results. Your details will not be used for fundraising purposes.

It was the Tories who opposed our motion!

LAST week's headline ("Council urged to do more to help refugees", Advertiser, May 11) bewildered us, as did Conservative councillor Nick Dines' comments.

Mr Dines was correct in saying that last September Labour councillors called the plight of refugees desperate. Indeed a motion to council to that effect was passed on September 24.

What he didn't say was that every single Conservative councillor, including himself, opposed it. Mr Dines even tabled an amendment applauding the government for their role in supporting refugees.

This was roundly defeated because this government deserves no such praise, being the same government that last week was forced into accepting 3,000 unaccompanied child refugees just to quell an embarrassing backbench rebellion of Conservative MPs who supported an immigration bill amendment put forward by Labour's Lord Dubs (a former Kindertransport child refugee himself). It's worth observing that Mr Dines' amendment also requested "that the cost to local authorities of this be borne by the national government, not putting financial pressure on local authorities."

We're pleased that Mr Dines agrees with us. The cost of supporting a child in care is £5,000 per annum, as pointed out by the Local Government Association to the Home Office, which continues to drag its feet on providing details of the national scheme to which Enfield Council will fully subscribe.

The council has convened a working party that is gathering information in readiness for any refugees placed with us and we are working closely with the mayor's office, awaiting guidance. Local authorities with housing capacity are being involved first.

Curiously, Mr Dines' change of heart was accompanied by a second outbreak of compassionate Conservatism last week.

Enfield Southgate MP David Burrows wrote in his newsletter that he "welcomes the extension of the resettlement programme for Syrian refugees, but is concerned that it is too little, too late compared to more generous resettlement and refugee programmes offered by other countries".

His votes, too, tell a different story. He voted against Lord Dubs' amendment. We wonder whether this is compassionate, calculating or convenient – an attempt to draw the line under the scurrilous Conservative mayoral campaign perhaps and regain some moral high ground?

We understand Mr Dines attended the ex-mayor's leaving party on Thursday, as did the Prime Minister. Perhaps next time their paths cross, Mr Dines will knock some sense into David Cameron, urge him to free up the red tape and enable us to get going on the motion that we signed so wholeheartedly – which Mr Dines did not.

Rent controls are required

I'm a private renter and saw my rent go up days before I was elected to the London Assembly on May 5.

I spent most of the campaign putting up with a toilet that keeps breaking. I know first hand why we need rent controls, more secure tenancies, a ban on letting agent fees and many other reforms to make renting fairer.

Sadly, our new Mayor of London doesn't have the power to introduce these changes, but he can lobby the government to give him the powers to do it. Mayors in other cities, including Berlin and New York, have these powers, so why not London?

I want to work with private renters' groups over the next four years to help them set up a Renters' Union to give us all a stronger voice. Working with council and housing associations tenants too, we can get a better deal for Londoners.

Don't overlook our youngsters

SADIQ Khan deserves congratulations on his election as Mayor of London. He will no doubt face many competing demands for his attention as he establishes his team at City Hall.

Among the many different voices and opinions that make up our diverse capital, there are some who experience little difficulty in finding a platform, while others regularly struggle to be heard. Our city's disadvantaged children and young people fall firmly into the latter camp.

Mr Khan argued in his manifesto that there is no excuse for child poverty, or for people to have to rely on food banks in order to feed their children. Nevertheless, the extent to which some families struggle to survive is obvious to the Barnardo's workers who support them in services throughout London.

While there are no easy answers when it comes to tackling inequality and disadvantage in our capital, there is much that can be done to make life easier for families who face a daily battle to get by. Amid the early clamour for action, I urge Mr Khan to make sure that London's vulnerable children, young people and families are given the attention they deserve.

At the heart of the area is Winchmore Hill Green surrounded by shops, restaurants and other services.

The main road artery is Green Lanes linking Enfield to the City of London, providing you with a wide variety of places to eat, professionals to assist you decorate and perfect your home and boutiques to enable you to dress and impress.

In addition there are a number of health shops to help you cleanse both the inside and out.

To the east of Green Lanes much of the area is given over to open space with playing fields, schools and allotment areas, but the most attractive space is Grovelands Park.

A large part of the southern quadrant of the area finds houses ranging from compact terraces to more generous linked houses with a distinct Edwardian flavour and a number of these have been converted into flats. The majority of the remainder are typical suburbs dwellings from the late 1920's and early 1930's but many of these homes are being extended thus reducing the early spacious feel of the district.

At the 2001 census, Winchmore Hill had 12,225 residents in

Khan is urged to halt cycle plans for Green Lanes

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

OPPOSITION to plans for a cycle lane along a stretch of one of the borough's busiest roads mounted this week with London's new mayor being urged to use his powers to scrap it.

Campaign group Save Our Green Lanes has set up an online petition calling on Sadiq Khan to fulfil a pledge it says he made to one of its members "that the needs of local residents affected by cycle schemes must be paramount...and the scheme workable".

It says that Enfield Council's proposal for cycle lanes along the A105 (Green Lanes) between Enfield Town and Palmers Green is not only unworkable, but unsafe and ignores the huge opposition from residents and businesses.

Save Our Green Lanes chairman Roger Taylor said it would cause traffic congestion, increase air pollution and posed a major safety risk.

"Passengers boarding and getting off buses at 22 stops along Green Lanes would share a section of the pavement with cyclists," he said.

"As schoolchildren, families with buggies and older people with less mobility are major users of local buses, there obviously must be major safety concerns.

Pledge: Sadiq Khan

"We want to make it clear to Sadiq Khan that Enfield Council seems determined to push this ill-conceived cycle lane scheme through despite huge local opposition," added Mr Taylor.

The campaign is urging residents to sign the petition – <https://www.change.org/p/the-mayor-of-london-sadiq-khan-stop-tfl-fro-imposing-an-unworkable-cycle-lane-scheme-on-enfield> on-enfield

Meanwhile, a new campaigning group, Better Streets For Enfield, was launched this week with the aim of striking a fairer balance between pedestrians, cyclists and vehicles on the borough's roads.

The alliance, which includes play street organisers, school governors and clean air campaigners, says it is not "anti-car" as many of its members drive.

While backing the council's ambitious £30million Mini-Holland cycle schemes for the borough, the group says it is seeking to raise public awareness of its benefits "while promoting other means to achieve better streets in Enfield for everyone".

A choice theatrical opportunity awaits

HENRY Horatio Hobson is one of the greatest comic characters in English drama. Self-made man, shopkeeper, skinflint and boozier, he's a tyrant to his daughters and a law unto himself.

When Maggie, his eldest daughter, defies Hobson's wishes by marrying Will Mossop, his own boot-maker, a battle of wills begins in which he stands to lose his customers, his girls and his pride, but ultimately it is Hobson's choice.

This year marks the 100th anniversary of the first UK production of Harold Brighouse's classic comedy, which is rich with laughter, wit and warmth.

It stars Martin Shaw, one of the UK's favourite actors, well-known for appearing in Inspector George Gently, Judge John Deed, and The Professionals on TV, Tony Award nominated for An Ideal Husband on Broadway and winner of a Drama Desk award. His recent West End credits include A Man for All Seasons and Twelve Angry Men.

Christopher Timothy is best-known for his roles as James Herriot in All Creatures Great and Small and Mac in the BBC series Doctors.

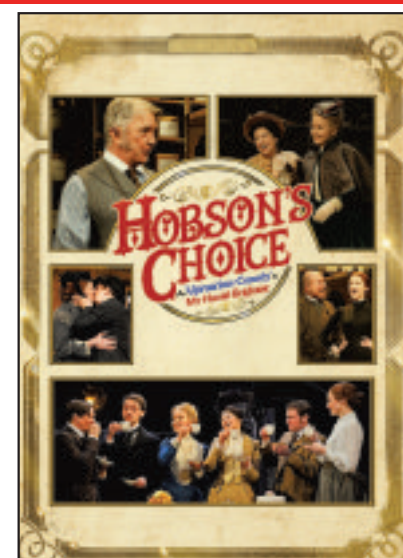

Artistic director of the Chichester Festival Theatre since 2006, where his acclaimed productions have included Taken at Midnight, The Resistible Rise of Arturo Ui and Singin' in the Rain, Jonathan Church has recently been appointed artistic director of Sydney Theatre Company.

What's on and what's coming

Bobby's set to dazzle

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

COMEDIAN Bobby Davro doesn't appear on TV as regularly as he once did, but he's still one of showbiz's busiest entertainers.

Fresh from starring as the scarecrow in the pantomime, The Wizard of Oz (yes, panto at Easter), the 56-year-old brings his hilarious brand of stand-up comedy and impressions to Millfield Theatre tomorrow (Thursday).

The versatile comic, impressionist and actor will be performing his new Taking The Mimic show at the Silver Street venue, in Edmonton.

It's part of a hectic 20-date national tour, which will see him performing his riotous routine of amusing jokes and uncannily realistic impersonations until the end of June.

At the height of his fame in the 1980s and 1990s he was rarely off the screens with shows such as Bobby Davro On The Box, Bobby's Sketch Pad, TV Weekly Bobby, Rock with Laughter, Run The Risk and Winner Takes All, plus hundreds of guest spots on other shows.

Despite his act being shunned by some TV executives as "old-fashioned" he is as much in demand as he ever was, playing live theatres and clubs, appearing in pantomimes and performing on the after-dinner circuit.

Occasional appearances on the small screen in more recent years have seen him in an acting role as Vinnie Monks in TV soap EastEnders, as well as on TV reality shows including last year's Celebrity Big Brother, in which he reached the final, Dancing on Ice and Celebrity Come Dine With Me.

A die-hard Spurs fan, the likeable father-of-three says he is frustrated that people don't get to see his act on telly because TV bosses assume his comedy is "old-fashioned" and not "trendy."

"They think I'm still doing Frank Spencer impressions, but I've got a very contemporary act," he said.

"I don't consider myself an old school comedian," he added.

Up to date: Bobby Davro says there's nothing old school about his comedy

"Remarkably compelling, amazingly detailed and always humorous"

Irish lads show their commitment

SING STREET (12A, 106 mins)

If it ain't broke, don't fix it. That's the mantra of John Carney, writer-director of Oscar-winning romance Once and Begin Again, who remains in a bittersweet musical groove for this effortlessly charming coming-of-age story.

Set in 1985 Dublin, Sing Street revisits the decade of questionable fashion choices, when Frankie told us all to relax and Duran Duran frolicked on sun-kissed beaches with the girls of Rio.

Against this vibrant backdrop, Carney charts the rise of a pop group formed by boys' school misfits, who escape the economic hardships of the era through their infectious, self-penned music.

Life knocks the lads down, but they get back up again, inspiring classmates to rebel against the dictates of their school's disciplinary headmaster, Brother Baxter (Don Wycherley).

Carney's script delicately touches on themes of sexual abuse, domestic violence and adultery, counterbalancing the lead characters' exuberance with harsh life lessons that echo perfectly the words of the film's down-trodden heroine, "That's what love is: happy sad."

Laughter and tears come together in sweet harmony.

Robert (Aidan Gillen) and his wife Penny (Maria Doyle Kennedy) reluctantly tighten their purse strings, to the chagrin of their children Brendan (Jack Reynor), Ann (Kelly Thornton) and Conor (Ferdia Walsh-Peelo). Fifteen-year-old Conor transfers to a boys' school, where he falls foul of resident bully Barry (Ian Kenny), but makes one friend in red-haired outcast Darren (Ben Carolan).

Desperate to catch the eye of a local girl called Raphina (Lucy Boynton), Conor forms a band called Sing Street and ropes in some of the local kids including multi-instrumentalist Eamon (Mark McKenna) and duo Larry (Conor Hamilton) and Garry (Karl Rice).

Another classmate, Ngig (Percy Chamberuka), is headhunted because, as Conor innocently observes: "He's bound to play something. He's black."

Buoyed by initial success, Conor and Eamon get their creative juices flowing to pen original songs inspired by The Jam, Spandau Ballet and The Cure.

Meanwhile, Conor urgently seeks advice from Brendan about wooing Raphina, whose boyfriend drives around town with Genesis blaring from his stereo.

"No woman can truly love a man who listens to Phil Collins," counsels Brendan.

Sing Street is 106 minutes of fizzing, pop-infused joy that unfolds through the innocent, questioning eyes of sensitive teenager Conor and his brothers in musical arms.

Writer-director Carney conjures lovely scenes like Conor and his siblings dancing around a bedroom to the Hall & Oates classic Maneater, while their parents argue downstairs, or a feel-good dream sequence in a school gymnasium.

Walsh-Peelo anchors the young cast with a performance of touching vulnerability – and his chemistry with on-screen brother Reynor leaves a big lump in the throat.

Songs composed especially for the film by Carney and Gary Clark, including the barn-storming Drive It Like You Stole It are perfectly crafted. Ireland need to recruit them for next year's Eurovision.

New launch of idyllic town and country homes

Bournegate Court, the newest phase of L&Q's Bolingbroke Park development, will go on sale on 21st May, offering idyllic homes for both first-time buyers and downsizers.

This collection of contemporary two- and three-bedroom apartments is located in Cockfosters, an area known for its vast open green space with the 413-acre Trent Park a short walk away. On the Piccadilly Line, it is also just half an hour into the centre of London, meaning that new homes at Bournegate Court offer buyers the perfect blend of town and countryside living.

Apartments at Bournegate Court are designed to make the best use of space and are arranged around an attractive and modern open-plan kitchen and living area. Each home features a spacious private balcony, while high-specification fixtures and fittings and en-suite master complete the bright and airy properties.

Properties at Bournegate Court start at £455,000 for a two-bedroom home, making this the ideal option for first-time buyers or downsizers who want to take advantage of good-value house prices in the area while maintaining close links to London. The development is under 10 minutes' walk to the Grade II-listed Cockfosters station at the start of the Piccadilly Line. This provides commuters with a quick and easy connection to major employment and transport hubs, as Kings Cross and Oxford Circus are both about half an hour away.

Meanwhile, the West End and the South Bank can be reached in around 40 minutes, bringing London's cultural attractions within easy reach. The development is also located just moments away from a thriving centre with a village feel: a range of independent shops and boutiques, including delicatessens and fishmongers, as well as traditional country pubs and the popular Chickenshed theatre.

Cathy Lloyd, L&Q's Sales and Marketing Director, said, "We are excited about the launch of our next phase at Bolingbroke Park. Bournegate Court offers contemporary apartments ideal for homeowners wanting to make their first step up on the property ladder as well as downsizers looking for a more manageable home. Bolingbroke Park's perfect location gives residents easy connections into the employment, cultural and retail hubs of London. Meanwhile, the countryside feel of the area means that residents have a perfect retreat from their busy city lives. Bolingbroke Park allows people to buy a home with a country feel, without needing to leave the city."

Prices at Bournegate Court start at £455,000 for a two-bedroom, two-bathroom home with generous outdoor space.

Bolingbroke Park's Sales and Marketing Suite is located at Chase Side, Cockfosters, EN4 8HT. For more information or to book an appointment visit www.bolingbrokepark.co.uk or call 0333 0033 637.

Jaguar keeps Pace with rivals

By Matt Kimberley

ON paper, the F-Pace is as new as they come. Rumours of Jaguar building an SUV started in the 1990s, but it's taken until now for one to arrive.

It's designed to offer the space and practicality that SUV buyers demand while still looking – and crucially, also driving – like a real Jaguar should.

Under the svelte skin, the F-Pace is based on the same aluminium architecture as the XF, while the four-wheel-drive system is derived from that used on the F-Type. It also gets some off-road technology as well as some neat tricks of its own.

Finished in the striking Caesium Blue of the special First Edition model and riding on the vast 22-inch alloy wheels, the F-Pace is a superb looking machine in the flesh.

It's a coherent design too, not just a Jaguar grille applied to a tall car, with obvious nods to other Jaguar models and a sense of style and speed.

The lower-specification models still look good too, although it's likely that the 22-inch wheels will become something of an essential choice.

There's no doubt Jaguar's image has been on the up for the best part of a decade now and it's certainly ready to carry an SUV in its range. With the reputation of its other models well cemented, it may just become the driver's pick in the segment.

There's no escaping the fact that buyers move into SUVs from other models because they want the space, whether they use it or not, but Jaguar has clearly done its homework. It's a mid-sized machine, but inside it feels big, front and rear.

The boot is huge at 650 litres with the seats in place and it's well sized – long and tall as well as wide with no irritating intrusions, and with plenty of useful storage in the cabin.

It's a compliment to the F-Pace and the team behind it that sometimes it's easy to think you're behind the wheel of a Jaguar saloon.

Regardless of engine choice there is a sweetness and a directness to the response from the controls – in particular the steering – that demonstrates a commitment to driving pleasure. Whether you're just ambling around town or destroying a B-road, the F-Pace flows along as well as its saloon siblings.

The 375bhp, 3.0-litre supercharged V6 petrol is likely to be the least popular option, but it's definitely the most fun. It rasps and crackles when extended and makes the F-Pace a real sporting car.

During a long drive on some challenging country roads, it made fantastic progress, being quick, controlled and composed.

The 2.0-litre diesel with 178bhp will be the best seller in the UK and, while it can't compete with the V6 petrol on performance, it has a strong set of figures – 318lb.ft of torque, 0-62mph in 8.7 seconds, 53.3mpg combined and 139g/km of CO2.

The eight-speed automatic shifts quickly and smoothly to make the most of the engine torque and noise levels are kept in check.

The F-Pace is a car with exceptionally broad appeal. It has the SUV presence and heft that buyers are keen on, but it's better to look at than any of its rivals, which may attract more female buyers.

It's also great fun to drive as well as relaxing, which will make it more appealing to buyers who need to trade up for more space.

And those who do need the space should find the F-Pace has as much as they need, with the reassurance of off-road security. The F-Pace could be the car that blows the competition out of the water.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Offers are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

- Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
- 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
- To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
- The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 - Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 - Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
 - Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
- The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
- Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
- Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
- All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
- The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
- Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
- All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
 - Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
 - Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
- Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
- All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
- All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
- The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
- The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing detectors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. POCHETTINO: I APOLOGISE

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

MAURICIO POCHETTINO issued an apology to Tottenham Hotspur's supporters after they crashed to a humiliating 5-1 defeat at relegated Newcastle United on Sunday to miss out on second place in the final Premier League table.

Spurs have enjoyed a terrific season which saw them put in a serious challenge to win the title, but they suffered a dramatic loss of form at the wrong time as they collected just two points from their last four matches – a miserable run which resulted in bitter rivals Arsenal overtaking them to claim bragging rights in north London for a 21st successive year.

And manager Pochettino, who last week signed a contract extension which will keep him at the club until 2021, was far from impressed with what he saw from his players over the weekend.

"This was my worst day as a manager in England or Spain," he said. "I'd like to apologise to our fans. They don't deserve what happened."

"We cannot explain what happened on the pitch. The feeling is bad, very bad. In the first 45 minutes we were very bad in the way we played. We were without intensity, it was like we were on holiday and this is the result."

"It's a shame because we should not finish the way we finished. We cannot arrive in the last few games of the season and be the opposite of everything we have shown all season."

A lot of good things have happened this season, but for now you take away that good feeling. It's very difficult, but we need to look forward, to fight, to be positive and to be strong.

A miserable afternoon: Mauricio Pochettino admitted that Sunday was his worst day as a manager

"The worst thing is that we showed we don't care about the position. We've shown in the last few weeks that we need to improve our mental state for next season."

Despite their obvious disappointment at their wretched conclusion to the campaign, Spurs did still secure their highest finish in Premier League history to guarantee a place in next season's Champions League.

And striker Harry Kane – who won the golden boot as the highest scorer in the league – believes that they will look back on the season with pride once they get over their frustration at Sunday's result.

"It leaves a very bitter taste," he said. "It was a terrible display. That was probably the worst performance as a team I've been a part of. There are no excuses. No words can put this right."

"We know how much finishing above Arsenal means to the fans and the club. People think they've had a bad season and we've had a good one, and yet they've still finished above us. Two points from the last four games is unacceptable. We're still learning and haven't cracked it yet."

"We've had a fantastic season, but the last four weeks haven't been good enough. It's hard. It will be hard for the fans as well, but the bigger picture is that we're playing Champions League football next season, which at the start any one of us and any fan would have taken."

"It's nice to win the golden boot, but it would have been nicer to win it in different circumstances."

Haringey Academy claim national title

HARINGEY Sixth Form Basketball Academy were crowned champions of the under-19s men's Dynamic National Schools' Competition after beating Newcastle Under Lyme College 73-71 in Manchester.

The game proved to be intense from the start and Haringey skipper Draí Nelson scored six points early on to help them open up a 13-6 lead.

However, Newcastle hit back and moved 17-16 ahead by the end of the first quarter thanks largely to 11 points from Rhizwahn Harris.

The second period saw the lead change on numerous occasions before Haringey suddenly gained the upper hand in the closing stages – scoring nine unanswered points to go into half-time with a 37-28 advantage.

Harris continued to shine for Newcastle after the restart as he helped them close the gap, but seven points from Haringey's Matthias Kapsolos played a key role in ensuring that they remained a point ahead going into the final quarter.

It was Newcastle who made the better start to the last period as they scored six unanswered points, but Haringey hit back and Kapsolos added another seven points to his tally to put them back in front.

The lead continued to change hands on a regular basis during a dramatic climax, but baskets from Lumeir Small and Isshiah Bilson-Graham inside the last minute ultimately proved decisive as Haringey edged to a dramatic win.

Coach Perry Lawson said: "This is a great reward for all that we do at the London School of Basketball. It's great to see young talent come through in big games. The team played well and gave it their all."

Crushing triumph keeps Hornsey at the top of the table

HORNSEY continued their excellent start to the season in Division Two of the Middlesex County Cricket League by romping to a nine-wicket win at home to Enfield on Saturday.

Having won their opening match of the campaign comfortably the previous weekend, Hornsey were equally impressive in this contest as they kept themselves joint top of the table.

Jack Plumb made an unbeaten 111 as Enfield posted a score of 228-9 from their 45 overs, but this total proved to be inadequate as the hosts quickly began to pile on the runs.

Paul Weekes led the way with 104 not out, while he received excellent support from Joe Emmanuel (63 not out) and Jamie Harris (48) as Hornsey cruised to 229-1 with three overs to spare.

However, Highgate are struggling at the other end of the table following a five-wicket defeat at Harrow St Mary's.

Batting first, no-one was able to make a significant contribution as Highgate were restricted to 170-6 – Christopher Arul top-scoring with just 29.

And Aalok Soni (77) then played the key innings when Harrow St Mary's replied, sharing in a third-wicket stand of 95 with Tom Pettet (42) as they romped to 172-5.

Elsewhere, North Middlesex suffered a 16-run defeat in a low-scoring encounter at Eastcote in the Premier Division.

Nick Brand (4-52) and Joel Hughes (3-12 from 8.1 overs) made their mark with the ball for North Middlesex as the hosts were dismissed for just 130 batting first – with Joshua Sundberg making a crucial 43.

But the visitors also found runs hard to come by in reply and Will Nicoll (37) and Adam Holmes (20) were the only men to make double figures as they were bowled out for 114, with James Corbett taking 3-23.

Meanwhile, North London lost by two wickets at home to Bessborough in Division Three.

North London were restricted to 168 batting first, with Sharrick Chavda taking 4-38, and Ian Barrie's 64 helped Bessborough to edge to 169-8 in reply.

North Middlesex entertain Teddington on Saturday, while Highgate host Wembley, Hornsey are at home to Indian Gymkhana and North London go to Brentham.
